Estimé & USACE Send Relief to Haiti

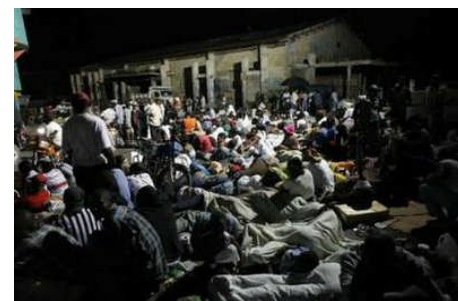

On Tuesday, January 12, 2010 an earthquake of 7.0 magnitude shook the city of Port-au-Prince in Haiti, affecting millions and leaving thousands of dollars in repair cost. The powerful earthquake struck shortly before 5 p.m. and was felt as far as eastern Cuba, more than 200 miles away. The quake ripped apart buildings, shearing huge slabs of concrete off structures and several buildings that remained standing were left open to the elements.

Estimé Inc., along with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers (USACE), the State Dept., USAID, Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and US Southern Command (USSOUTHCOM), are all ready to assist the victims in Haiti.

Estimé and USACE are working together to help the victims of Haiti. Estimé has donated a financial contribution while USACE has deployed 4 engineers (1 civil, 1 structural, 1 electrical, 1 hydrological) to support the relief effort. USACE also has two 8-person teams from their South Atlantic Division office who are on alert and prepared to deploy. They are also preparing additional structural engineers for possible deployment.

In addition, USACE has alerted the 249th Engineer Battalion, which provides emergency power, to be ready to go on a moment's notice, and have the best subject matter experts for commodities, infrastructure, navigation and debris removal standing by.
